DRUID is a leading academic conference on innovation and entrepreneurship, attracting hundreds of highest-level scholars as well as PhD students from around the world. Entry is highly competitive and participation fee is high. But as a CBS student you have the opportunity to participate as a student assistant. As employed at the DRUID conference you will work between 15-20 hours during the three days of the conference. In return you will get:

- Access to the conference sessions
- Lunch and coffee during the conference
- Possibility of meeting the top researchers and educators in the field of innovation, entrepreneurship and industrial dynamics
- A letter of reference stating that you worked at the conference
- A hourly salary of 123,05 DKK (+ 12,50% holiday pay)

We are looking for 10 students to work at DRUID19. Your tasks at the conference will be to help with registration, provide general guidance to the conference participants, and assist with technical support during the conference sessions. Interacting with conference participants and making sure conferences sessions run without flaws, we expect you to be service minded, professional, and positive at all times. While fluency in English and general IT skills are required, you will be given a short course introducing you to the needed CBS’ IT facilities.

Student assistants for DRUID19 will automatically also be offered the opportunity work at one or two other top international conferences hosted at CBS in the days following DRUID19:
- iBEGIN (100 participants), CBS, June 22-23: https://www.facebook.com/events/241489470105415/
- AIB (1,200 participants), CBS, June 24-27: https://aib.msu.edu/events/2019/

This is not mandatory, but a good way of earning more while maximizing your experience and making use of the skills acquired during DRUID19. For more information:
